DONOR STORY

EQUIPPING VETS

ADDITIONAL NEWS

During the trying time across the globe, WVfV is still hard at work finding ways to assist our injured veterans. We will continue on our mission in spite of the COVID-19 Virus. We are working to multiply our efforts and join forces with other veteran-serving nonprofits to help as many veterans as we can. Our new partnerships include the Farmer-Veteran Coalition and the US Veterans Chamber of Commerce and others. We will be announcing new initiatives soon. Stay tuned. We continue to be available by email at info@wvfv.org or cathy@wvfv.org or carey@wvfv.org

DONOR STORY: Dominion Energy Charitable Foundation grant of $7500 for WVfV new program "Equipping Veteran-Owned Technology Businesses."

US Navy veteran Carla of Maryland is the first recipient of technology equipment from this new program. While in the Navy she became a Lead Instructor and ultimately led Navy qualification training for certification of new Corpsman. She currently serves as a volunteer EMT and a Maryland Emergency Management Agency Instructor. Carla has created a unique virtual reality training program to recertify healthcare and first responder personnel for their annual CPR training. READ MORE HERE

EQUIPPING VETS: Veteran Sean C. of Colorado recently lost all of his tools right in the middle of a contract. WVfV was able to replace many of them so he can get back to using his contractor skills. We are happy to offer this "hand up"!

CONNECTING OUR VETS: Peer-to-peer support is the best, and WVfV is pleased that so many of our awardees are connecting with each other on our private Facebook page so they can support each other, exchange business ideas, even buy and sell with one another. We are a big family now, with over 500 veteran-owned businesses who are still serving by helping one another. Especially now.

HELPING OLDER VETS: WVfV answered a call for help from a CT vet in need following a hip replacement. We presented a portable electric scooter to this deserving vet.

LAPTOPS are still shipping out to vets across the country, like this grateful vet in Tennessee! Thank you to Pfizer, Electric Boat and others for donating laptops.
